

Community Partner Campaign

Building Bridges. Creating Community.

Help Build a More Connected, Aphasia-Friendly Georgia

What is aphasia?

Aphasia is a language disorder, most often caused by stroke or other brain injury, that affects a person's ability to speak, understand, read, and write. It does not affect intelligence. People with aphasia know what they want to say, but communicating can become incredibly difficult. More than 2 million Americans live with aphasia, yet it remains one of the least recognized communication disorders.

The Georgia Aphasia Project (GAP) is seeking Community Partners to support our October Aphasia Camp and expand opportunities for connection, belonging, and participation for individuals living with aphasia and their families.

Over the past several years, we've learned something important. While therapy helps people regain some of their communication skills, many individuals continue to experience isolation long after rehabilitation ends.

That's where GAP comes in.

Through camps, communication groups, caregiver support, student education, and community partnerships, we help people reconnect—with themselves, with others, and with the activities and relationships that give life purpose.

This October, we will welcome participants from across Georgia for a week of education, wellness, creativity, movement, music, and connection. Registration fees intentionally cover only a portion of the actual cost of camp. Community Partners make the rest possible.

Community Partner Opportunities

Building Bridges. Creating Community.

The Georgia Aphasia Project believes no one should face aphasia alone. Your partnership helps create opportunities for connection, belonging, and hope for individuals with aphasia and the people who love them.

Community Champion

$2,500+

Building a More Connected, Aphasia-Friendly Georgia

Community Champions invest in GAP's long-term vision. Their partnership helps expand opportunities for connection, belonging, education, advocacy, and community participation for individuals living with aphasia across Georgia.

Why Your Partnership Matters

Every Community Partner helps us build bridges between:

- Communication and Connection
- Therapy and Everyday Life
- Isolation and Belonging
- Students and Future Clinical Practice
- Caregivers and Community
- Recovery and Purpose

Thank you for helping us build bridges, create community, and ensure that no one has to navigate aphasia alone. We are grateful for your partnership and your belief in a more connected, aphasia-friendly Georgia.
